Overview

The U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), Office of Justice Programs (OJP), Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) seeks applications to develop, enhance, or expand art programs for justice-involved youth. This program furthers the DOJ's mission by supporting high-quality art programs for current and previous justice-involved youth, including Tribal and Indigenous youth, to reduce juvenile delinquency, recidivism, and/or other problem and high-risk behaviors. OJJDP defines justice-involved youth as those participating in court-ordered diversion programs, in detention, correctional, or other residential facilities, and/or are on probation due to a delinquency finding by juvenile court.

This solicitation incorporates the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide by reference. The OJP Grant Application Resource Guide provides guidance to applicants on how to prepare and submit applications to OJP for funding. If this solicitation expressly modifies any provision in the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide, the applicant is to follow the guidelines in this solicitation as to that provision.

To advance Executive Order 13929 Safe Policing for Safe Communities, the Attorney General determined that all state, local, and university or college law enforcement agencies must be certified by an approved independent credentialing body or have started the certification process to be eligible for FY 2022 DOJ discretionary grant funding. To become certified, the law enforcement agency must meet two mandatory conditions: (1) the agency's use-of-force policies adhere to all applicable federal, state, and local laws and (2) the agency's use-of-force policies prohibit chokeholds except in situations where use of deadly force is allowed by law. The certification requirement also applies to law enforcement agencies receiving DOJ discretionary grant funding through a subaward. For detailed information on this certification requirement, please visit <https://cops.usdoj.gov/SafePolicingEO> to access the Standards for Certification on Safe Policing for Safe Communities, the Implementation Fact Sheet, and the List of Designated Independent Credentialing Bodies.

All recipients and subrecipients (including any for-profit organization) must forgo any profit or management fee.

OJJDP will consider applications under which two or more entities would carry out the federal award; however, only one entity may be the applicant. Any others must be proposed as subrecipients (subgrantees). For additional information on subawards, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide.

Program Description

Overview

OJP is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights and racial equity, increases access to justice, supports crime victims and individuals impacted by the justice system, strengthens community safety, and protects the public from crime and evolving threats, and builds trust between law enforcement and the community. OJJDP envisions a nation where children are free from crime and violence. If they come into contact with the justice system, it should be rare, fair, and beneficial to them. This solicitation will support high-quality arts programs for justice-involved youth to reduce juvenile delinquency, recidivism, and/or other problem and high-risk behaviors. Arts programs include but are not limited to painting, sculpting, drama, digital media, film, music, dance, singing, and creative writing.

Specific Information

OJJDP has invested in the potential of the arts to positively impact youth development and reduce or prevent juvenile delinquency and/or recidivism. Arts and justice collaborations between OJJDP and the National Endowment for the Arts include the Youth Arts Development Project in 1995, publishing the Guide to Promising Practices in Arts Programs for Juvenile Offenders in Detention and Corrections in 2002, and OJJDP's Model Programs Guide literature review entitled Arts-Based Programs and Arts Therapies for At-Risk, Justice-Involved, and Traumatized Youths updated in 2021. OJJDP has also supported arts-based organizations and justice partnerships to work with youth on a variety of initiatives including arts-based mentoring programs, restorative justice, and culturally-based Tribal youth programs.

While more research is needed to explore how and in what optimal conditions the arts can directly impact the justice-involved youths' behavior, existing evidence shows that the arts can promote positive outcomes and achieve broader societal impacts, including a stronger sense of community. According to OJJDP's Arts-Based Programs and Arts Therapies for At-Risk, Justice-Involved, and Traumatized Youths literature review, the arts can help address emotional and problem behaviors for at-risk justice-involved youth. These behaviors include learning new skills, developing new talents, and expressing thoughts and ideas creatively and therapeutically. Arts programs can also facilitate teamwork and patience and help youth realize that failure is critical to discovery and learning (Stinson, 2009)<sup>[1]</sup>. High-quality arts programming in conjunction with trauma-informed therapeutic resources can provide opportunities for justice-involved youth to process trauma, "improve coping skills," and build resiliency and positive emotions." (Quillen, 2020).<sup>[2]</sup>

The arts can also promote healing programs for justice-involved youth. Healing programs can help youth process trauma, improve coping skills, and build resiliency. For example, in therapeutic settings, music lessons can be an effective strategy for decreasing unproductive behaviors and supporting productive behaviors by providing opportunities for self-expression, self-reflection, and a stronger sense of self. As a result, justice-involved youth can positively engage with their peers and communities. Quillen (2020) also suggested incorporating the arts into existing community-based programs to improve justice-involved youths' academics and social interactions.

Evaluations of incarcerated populations participating in arts programs showed positive results (Middleton, Harris, & Ackerman, 2019; Gussak, 2007).<sup>[3]</sup> For example, incarcerated youth reported improved attitude and mood, compliance with staff and rules, increased socialization skills, reduced depressive symptoms, improved confidence, and other positive skills (Middleton et al., 2019). For youth reentering their communities, the arts can strengthen social and emotional development, including self-awareness, conflict resolution, and better decision-making, resulting in broader societal impacts, including a stronger sense of community. A restorative justice based media-arts program enabled justice-involved youth to process and implement the program principles and express themselves through digital storytelling (Morris, 2018).<sup>[4]</sup>

This project seeks to support and strengthen collaborations between arts-based organizations and juvenile justice systems to develop, expand, or enhance effective interventions that provide access to high-quality art programs with and for justice-involved youth. Possible points of engagement with justice-involved youth can occur across the juvenile justice system, ranging from arts education for youth in secure facilities such as juvenile detention and confinement, arts programs as alternatives to incarceration, and/or as a strategy to support successful reentry into communities. Applications should include a theory of change that explains how the proposed intervention seeks to use art to impact justice-involved youth. These interventions may involve emphasizing the unique capability of the art interventions to reduce risk factors that lead to justice system involvement, including individual characteristics, social influences, and community conditions. Applications that partner with juvenile justice systems should include a letter of intent outlining how the project will develop or expand high-quality art programs for justice-involved youth.

Evidence-Based Programs or Practices

OJP strongly encourages the use of data and evidence in policymaking and program development for criminal justice, juvenile justice, and crime victim services. For additional information and resources on evidence-based programs or practices, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide.

OJJDP supports and encourages implementing evidence-based programs and/or strategies that incorporate art-based programs and therapies, Tribal best practices and Indigenous practices that have longevity within Tribal communities and/or traditional healing as a way to promote delinquency prevention and intervention programs for youth populations that are at risk for juvenile delinquency, victimization, and juvenile justice system involvement.

Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities

OJP may conduct or support an evaluation of the programs and activities funded under this solicitation. For additional information, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide section entitled “Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities.”

OJP Priority Areas

The Department of Justice is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights and racial equity, increases access to justice, supports crime victims and individuals impacted by the justice system, strengthens community safety and protects the public from crime and evolving threats, and builds trust between law enforcement and the community.

1. Priority Considerations Supporting Executive Order 13985, Advancing Racial Equity and Support for Underserved Communities Through the Federal Government

Consistent with this Executive Order, the term “underserved community” refers to a population sharing a particular characteristic, as well as a geographic community, that has been systematically denied a full opportunity to participate in aspects of economic, social, and civic life or whose members have been historically underserved, marginalized, and adversely affected by inequality. Such communities include, among others, Black people, Hispanics and Latino/a/e people, Native American and other Indigenous peoples of North America (including Alaska Natives, Eskimos, and Aleuts), Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders.

In support of Executive Order 13985, OJP will:

A. Give priority consideration to applications that include project(s) that will promote racial equity and the removal of barriers to access and opportunity for communities that have been historically underserved, marginalized, and adversely affected by inequality, when making award decisions.

To receive this consideration, the applicant must describe how the proposed project(s) will address potential inequities and barriers to equal opportunity, and/or contribute to greater access to services for underserved and historically marginalized populations.

B. OJJDP will give priority consideration to applicants that demonstrate a commitment to ensuring fairness, equity, and access to justice for all children and families regardless of their race or ethnicity; religion; socioeconomic status; gender; age; mental health; cognitive, sensory, or physical disability; sexual orientation or gender identity or expression; geographic location; or other characteristics historically linked to discrimination or exclusion.

To receive this priority consideration, applicants must include in their application a plan that describes how the applicant will incorporate these values and priorities into their program design.

C. Give priority consideration to applicants that can demonstrate that their capabilities and competencies for implementing their proposed project(s) are enhanced because the applicant (or at least one proposed subrecipient that will receive at least 30% of the requested award funding, as demonstrated in the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative) identifies as a culturally specific organization. To receive this additional priority consideration, applicants must describe how being a culturally specific organization (or funding the culturally specific subrecipient organization(s)) will enhance their ability to implement the proposed project (s) and should also specify which culturally specific populations are intended or expected to be served or to have their needs addressed under the proposed project(s).

Culturally specific organizations are defined, for purposes of this solicitation, as private nonprofit or Tribal organizations whose primary purpose as a whole is to provide culturally specific services to, among others, Black people, Hispanics and Latino/a/e people, Native American and other Indigenous peoples of North America (including Alaska Natives, Eskimos, and Aleuts), Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and/or Pacific Islanders.

Note: Addressing these priority areas is one of many factors that OJP considers in making funding decisions. Receiving priority consideration for one or more priority areas is not a guarantee of an award.

c. Capabilities and Competencies

Applicants must describe the capabilities and competencies to accomplish the project's goals and objectives.

d. Plan for Collecting the Data Required for this Solicitation's Performance Measures

Applicants must describe the process for measuring the project's performance based on the goals, objectives, and deliverables. Applicants must identify who will collect the data and how the project will use them to determine if the activities reduced or mitigated juvenile delinquency, recidivism, and/or other problems and high-risk behaviors.

Note: Applicants are not required to submit performance data with the application. Rather, performance measure information is included as an alert that successful applicants will be required to submit performance data as part of each award's reporting requirements.

OJP will require each successful applicant to submit regular performance data that show the completed work's results. ### Application Review Information

Review Criteria

a. Merit Review Criteria

Applications that meet the basic minimum requirements will be evaluated by peer reviewers. Applications will be evaluated on how the proposed project/program addresses the following criteria:

1. Description of the Issue (20%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the program/issue to be addressed.

2. Project Design and Implementation (25%)- evaluate the adequacy of the proposal, including the goals, objectives, timelines, milestones, and deliverables.
3. Capabilities and Competencies (20%) - evaluate the administrative and technical capacity of the applicant to successfully accomplish the goals and objectives.
4. Plan for Collecting the Data Required for this Solicitation's Performance Measures (15%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the performance data reporting requirements and the plan for collecting the required data.
5. Budget (20%) - evaluate for completeness, cost effectiveness, and allowability (e.g., reasonable, allocable, and necessary for project activities).

b. Other Review Criteria/Factors

Other important considerations for OJJDP include geographic diversity, strategic priorities (specifically including, but not limited to, those priority areas already mentioned), available funding, past performance, and the extent to which the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative (web-based form) accurately explain project costs that are reasonable, necessary, and otherwise allowable under federal law and applicable federal cost principles.

Review Process

Applications submitted under this solicitation that meet the basic minimum requirements, will be evaluated for technical merit by a peer review panel(s) in accordance with OJP peer review policy and procedures using the review criteria listed above.

OJP screens applications to ensure they meet the basic minimum requirements prior to conducting the peer review. Although specific requirements may vary, the following are common requirements applicable to all OJP solicitations:

- The application must be submitted by an eligible type of applicant.
- The application must request funding within programmatic funding constraints (if applicable).
- The application must be responsive to the scope of the solicitation.
- The application must include all items necessary to meet the basic minimum requirements.

Pursuant to the Part 200 Uniform Requirements, before award decisions are made, OJP also reviews information related to the degree of risk posed by the applicant. Among other things to help assess whether an applicant with one or more prior federal awards has a satisfactory record with respect to performance, integrity, and business ethics, OJP checks whether the applicant is listed in SAM as excluded from receiving a federal award.

In addition, if OJP anticipates that an award will exceed $250,000 in federal funds, OJP also must review and consider any information about the applicant that appears in the non-public segment of the integrity and performance system accessible through SAM (currently, the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System, FAPIIS).

Important note on FAPIIS: An applicant may review and comment on any information about itself that currently appears in FAPIIS and was entered by a federal awarding agency. OJP will consider such comments by the applicant, in addition to the other information in FAPIIS, in its assessment of the risk posed by the applicant.

Absent explicit statutory authorization or written delegation of authority to the contrary, all final award decisions will be made by the Assistant Attorney General, who may consider not only peer review ratings and OJJDP's recommendations, but also other factors as indicated in this section.
