Dear John:

We're still getting comments on the OJJDP forum – thanks to you.

I hope you realize how much the juvenile justice field, not just Youth Today, appreciates what you've done to elevate the level of knowledge about how federal juvenile justice policy is actually conceived and carried out. Your contributions will pay dividends in ways that neither of us will ever be able to measure.

On a personal level, I have immensely enjoyed our conversations and had a ball at the forum. I especially liked the Boy Scout story. I hope that we do get to continue this project in a substantive way, so that I can nag you in the future.

All the best,

Patrick Boyle, Editor
